

Gotham City Syndicatez - Misery

{Verse}

The sun reflects off the moon, taming our senses

The gun explodes with a boom, lifting expenses

Pre-historic sacrificial rituals, superstitions

Rising heat-wave temperatures, unexpected conditions

Are we living out our fantasies?

Are we blinded by our miseries?

{Pre-Chorus}

As those towers fall

Have you seen it all?

Little men enthrall the sprawl

Have you forseen it all?

{Chorus}

Listen here close

Don't close your ears

Batman will you answer for the actions of queers?

You think we are fine?

You think we won't whine?

Then you are just hopelessly damn blind

I thought you were fine

I thought you wouldn't whine

But turns out you are hopelessly damn blind

{Bridge}

When that clock strikes midnight

A frantic dance with light

Society inept, the wise old man, he wept

When that clock strikes midnight

The bombs go off with fright

Society inept, the wise old man, he wept

Is it worth this pain to let the outcasts run free?

Is it worth this pain to cause all of life's misery?
