

dylAn - Sandman

It feels like

Autumn's creeping in my window late at night

I like her bite

Crawling down my skin undress me to my skeleton

A sharpened knife

Carve into the tree the letter for you and the letter for me

I want to please

Whispering my prayer with my face between your knees

I feel you writhe

Under my slippery tongue spilling secrets at the pyre

Are we alive

I guess we think it's so though the feeling feels contrived

I force a smile

The days all seem unnumbered but i don't mind wasting my while

You're like the sea

Holding me deep inside you but still i feel so outside your reach

What's the point of a box

In the end it's either ending or the thing must come unlocked

I just wanted to talk

But i came to your house rambling high as fuck

You know me better enough

I don't think i've been the same since the night i last felt your touch

There's a piece out of me

Like my soul left my body and i'm walking and crumbling

You feel so out of reach

Like a dream i had and tasted but now we live on each others screens

I don't know what i need

But i think you hold a secret and i know your loves the key

I still visit in dreams

I still visit in dreams

I still visit in dreams

I still visit in dreams

Dreams

Dreams

Dreams

I still visit in dreams

So i guess i'm a mess

Truth be told it's my head

I'm so lost stuck in it

And i miss you in my bed

Yeah i know in my soul

I'm so empty

I should go

Fore i ruin what you wrote

Fore i ruin what we hold

You're a candle fan the flame

I'm a dancer in the rain

I could sing through all my pain

Just to see you once again

I still visit in dreams

I still visit in dreams

I still visit in dreams

I still visit in dreams