

Revolver - Stopping by woods on a snowy evening

VERSE

Breathe cold and steps frozen

There's snow resting on every end from my head, toes

My chest closed

And not because the air's cold

The treasure on my left is protected

You won't get to it

No entrance

To find this dead vault

My head's fault for being easily persuaded

Resulting in deviation

She shall be abbreviated BLE because you came out of the bluĐµ

Now stuck in em, she already blĐµw it

A breeze you say

A piece of cake

Indeed you played

With me ok

There'd be no place

To keep away

From me your face

I followed you

You'd lead the way, W

I've been the tail, why

I made the big mistake of loving you

A centre of the doubt I had about myself

Now I'm down and out and helpless

Remember how we fantasized about the snow

Candle lights, a house; a home

A cabin by the most enchanted woods

Now it would appear

All the snow has lost its magic
All the cold and frost is tragic
All those moments can't be bandaged
BRIDGE

So if it's destiny that we
Were never meant to be it seems
That evidently we were dreaming
And I wish that I'd remain reside and stay inside these woods and weep for she

CHORUS

But I got promises to keep
And I got promises to keep
Yes I got promises to keep
I got promises to keep
The woods are dark and deep
Honestly
Like your heart it seems
I wish that I could weep for she
But I got promises to keep
And miles to go before I sleep Æ—2
