

Revolver - The Letter

The Letter Video:

Lyrics to The Letter You knocked me down with a feather when you gently said
In a delicately scented letter you were gonna go away
And for the very first time in my life, I knew what those words could mean
Although you kinda took me by surprise, I felt you made yourself quite clear

In the train to the country, I couldn't really hide away
I was stuck with my memories and thought that it would never end
And when I finally got out of that train, I was haunted by a scary thought
That if all good things come to an end, our love was shattered by my fault
All because of a lie
So many days and so many nights wasting away my time in my doubts
Now I'm not the same person, I wanna start it all again
There's no need to know why, no need to worry about what was and should have never been

If you don't feel better, tell me what I should have said
Talked about the weather? Inside out a rainy day

So many days and so many nights wasting away my time in my doubts
Now I'm not the same person, I wanna start it all again
There's no need to know why, no need to worry about what was and should have never been
