

CAIRO! - Then You Were Gone

And from a deeper sleep i was awakened
Hours yet until sunrise
An eerie whisper called me to a strange new place
I'd known long ago
And as the swirling clouds grew calm before me
Unearthly beauty filled my mind

Suddenly from inside, i felt your touch
Like the warming sun, and i knew that i must Follow your steps - search all the world just to find you
... then you were gone
In the dusty heat of moroccan streets
I thought i saw your raven eyes
But after tripping through the crowded market stalls
Not a trace of you could i find
My heart was pounding as i ran down narrow alleyways

Mountains and desert sands i've journeyed in vain
The very thought of you commands my soul and i have Followed your steps, so many times i thought i had found you
... then you were gone

I would cross raging fire for you
I could climb to the sky

As if on fabled streets of burnished gold
Through ancient dreams i've wandered
Have i been hypnotized, as i've staggered on Through city and wilderness
My life will never ... never, never be the same

I followed your steps

So many times i thought i had found you

Then you were gone

I would cross raging fire for you

I could climb to the sky
