

CAIRO! - You Are The One

I could blame it on the mist

That drifted through my mind

Or the bleakness of so many winter nights

I could tell a tale of heartache

From the wishes not come true

But would it stand the test of time

As I wander down the lonely road I call my life

The darkness sometimes takes away the sun

But I see the eyes that light my way

Feel the arms that hold me

You are the one

If I told you I was sorry

For any tear I've made you cry

Could the words erase it from your mind

Would you let me give it to you

If the gift was mine to give

Would you take from me the sun, the moon, the sky

As I stumble through the battlefield I call my mind

I never seem to know if I have won

But then I see a light that calls to me

Feel your love surround me

You are the one